**PROJECT OBJECTIVES

1. The primary purpose of this event is to raise awareness about the calamity that has struck the Philippines on September 26, 2009, when typhoon "Ondoy" aka "Ketsana" slammed the country and caused massive flooding, expansive devastation and death. Within a 6-hour period, Ondoy pounded the country with a month's worth of rain forcing people to seek refuge on their rooftops and to swim in neck-deep flood waters, while cars and property were washed away in ravaging waves. The flooding wrought major damage that more than one week after the tragedy struck, many folks, from all social classes, are without water, electricity, food, clothes, medicine, and basic needs. Due to limited resources, thousand are cramped in evacuation centers still waiting for relief and assistance, while many homes are still inaccessible due to the thick mud, murky waters, and debris preventing flood waters from completely subsiding. People, especially children and the elderly are suffering. The situation is dire and we need to do our share in helping alleviate the devastation and loss to many people in our country who already had very little to begin with.
2. This event is aimed at providing an opportunity for the various foundations and organizations to speak about their ongoing relief efforts so that civic-minded individuals and groups may know where and how to make donations to legitimate causes and receive reassurance that these efforts are truly worthy of support.
3. This event also aims to assist in the appropriate channeling of donations. For those who wish to donate to the Philippine National Red Cross (PNRC) we have sought the assistance of Xoom.com, an online money transfer company who will provide onsite laptop computers with internet access to allow attendees to donate directly from their bank account or credit card to PNRC without paying any transmission fees. For in-kind donations, we have sought the assistance of Manila Forwarder, in shipping to the Philippines "free of charge" any in-kind donations collected onsite from attendees.
